

S P O R T I F

A CONTENT PLAN, PREPARED FOR LUCY WAYNE

Content Creation Strategy

How we build you into the trusted voice of Sportif, and turn that trust into sales.

Hi Lucy,

We spent a good while getting to know you properly. We read back through your interviews, pulled out the threads that make you who you are, and thought hard about one question. How do we turn all of it into content that actually sells, not just content that fills a feed. Here is where we landed. None of it is set in stone. Read it, tell us what feels like you and what does not, and we will shape it from there.

What we are trying to do

Here is the simple version. Sportif is your brand, and you are its greatest asset. People do not really buy a product, they buy from someone they trust. So the plan is to put you at the centre and build you into the expert women listen to, the calm and credible voice in a noisy space. Once that trust is there, reaching for Sportif becomes the natural thing to do.

The launch being on hold is not a delay, it is a head start. We use the time to build your name and an audience that already believes in you, so that when Sportif arrives, it lands in a warm room instead of a cold one.

Our one rule: every piece we make has a job. Prove your expertise, earn a little more trust, and make choosing Sportif the obvious next step. Value first, always. Do that well and the selling takes care of itself.*

Think of it like boxing. You throw jabs, real value, again and again, and you earn the one clean shot at the ask. Most brands swing for the sell far too early and miss. We would rather earn it.

How we see you

This part is about you, and we have not invented a word of it. It comes straight from your own interviews. Think of it as the picture we want to put in front of the world.

You are rare. Most fitness founders can only talk fitness. Most stylists can only talk clothes. You genuinely own both, and you point all of it at real women, not a size 8 ideal. That mix of style and strength, in your warm and practical way, is a lane almost nobody else can stand in.

Here is what you can speak on with real authority:

- Style that builds confidence, for real bodies and real life.
- Inclusive styling, for women size 14 and up, and women in transformation.
- Strength and movement, from reformer Pilates to everyday training.
- Wellness that is calm and sustainable, food, mindfulness, and community.

And people already know your name. You have styled Katy Perry, worked on The Great Gatsby with Baz Luhrmann's team, and built your reputation over more than fifteen years. That is credibility we get to build on, not manufacture.

Running through all of it are the things you actually believe:

"Confidence is not about perfection but about feeling good and showing up as oneself."

"While confidence comes from within, the right outfit can illuminate it."

You want every woman to feel seen, valued, and beautifully represented. That belief is the heart of the whole thing.

Some lines to get us started

To make this real, here are a few lines we could use in content. Some are taglines. Some are your own words. And a few are new lines we wrote in your voice, which we have marked clearly, because we would never put words in your mouth without your yes first.

Taglines we could run with:

- Strength you can wear.
- Where strength meets style.
- Look good because you feel strong.
- Real women, real strength, real style.
- Find your resistance.

In your own words:

- "I don't only style women that are a size 8."
- "Confidence is not about perfection but about feeling good and showing up as oneself."

New lines we drafted for you (your yes or no):

- Strong is not a size, it is a feeling.
- Confidence is a habit, and so is showing up.
- Every woman deserves to feel at home in her body and her wardrobe.

What happens next

If this feels like you, we take the next step together. We lock in the small handful of topics you will become known for, and we start making the content. If anything here does not sound like you, just tell us. That is exactly what a first draft is for.

Speak soon,

Ocho Productions

A first draft, prepared for Lucy Wayne. The lines marked as drafts are just that, and are only for you to approve before we ever use them.