

Sportif - Competitor Product Board

A plain-English look at what the brands Lucy named actually sell right now, with current prices and colours, and a note under each on what it means for Sportif. The maroon "In Sportif's lane" tag marks the products closest to what Sportif makes (straps, grip socks, pilates accessories).

The big picture: the encouraging news is that we found a handful of brands already sharing your vision for beautiful, colourful accessories, which is a good sign the instinct is right and there is real appetite for it. A few sell bands or straps in colour, though usually as one item inside a much bigger activewear range rather than the main event. Booty bands: Move Active ($19.60 to $28) and Your Reformer ($29, in blue, sage, mocha and cream). Ankle straps: Avara ($39, plain browns) and Kikiva ($29.99, pink and baby blue). Where we see lovely room for Sportif to stand out: a distinctive custom palette, leading as a focused accessories brand, a premium affordable-luxury feel, and the vegan and pouch story. The sold-out branded pouches and towels also hint at products people clearly want. All things we would love to explore together.

Avara Athletics

DIRECT (CLOSEST MATCH)

avaraathletics.com.au

The brand most like Sportif. It sells brushed-neoprene ankle straps ($39) and figure-8 wrist straps ($35), but only in three plain browns: Milk, Latte and Mocha. Beachy, warm, minimal photos with the AVARA name on a small patch. Free shipping over $120.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF The closest to what you are planning, and a lovely opening. They make nearly the same product but keep it plain and brown, so there is clear room for Sportif to do it in beautiful, custom colours. Their $39 ankle strap is a useful price guide for yours.

Move Active

DIRECT (CLOSEST ON PRODUCT)

moveactive.com.au

Australia's biggest pilates accessory brand (since 2009), with the widest range here: fabric resistance bands, grip socks, mat and reformer grip towels, gloves, scrunchies, headbands, tote bags and caps. Socks are normally about $23 but usually on sale. Several towels are sold out (a demand signal).

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF The closest to what you are planning on product. They DO sell fabric resistance bands ($19.60 to $28) and grip socks, just like Sportif plans to, but the band is one small item buried in a huge range and comes in only a few soft colours. Their $28 band is a useful price guide for Sportif's, and their sold-out towels show real demand. Where we see an opening for Sportif is in making the band and strap the hero, in distinctive custom colours.

Perth activewear brand. Grip socks are the busy line: many colours and styles (Vanilla, Cocoa, Tangelo, plus a 'Mystery' sock), all $12.99 but usually heavily discounted (up to 48% off, RRP $24.99). Apparel (leggings, pants, crops) sits around $56 to $76 on sale. Hugo bought a pair (Sculpt Wide Leg Pants plus Mystery Grip Socks) to check the quality in person.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF A close model for Sportif's grip-sock thinking: they turn one cheap item into many colours and gimmicks (the 'Mystery' sock) to keep it fresh. But the heavy discounting (48% off) shows they compete on price, where Sportif can be different by leading with design and custom colour. One sock (Tangelo) is sold out, another small demand signal.

Kikiva Collection

DIRECT (THE BRAND LUCY ADMIRES)

kivacollection.com

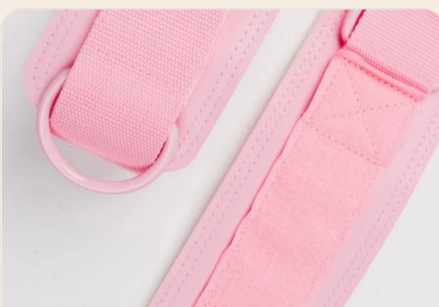

Perth founder-led activewear, the warm community brand Lucy admires, and it DOES sell accessories: ankle straps ($29.99 in Black, Pink and Baby Blue), gym towels ($19.99), pilates grip socks ($19.99), crew socks ($14.99), gym bags and a puff tote ($64.99) and a water bottle ($49.99). Apparel (crops, shorts, singlets, flares) runs $58.99 to $84.99. Some grip socks are sold out.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF Lovely to see: Kikiva, the brand you admire, also makes an ankle strap, already in feminine colours (pink, baby blue) at $29.99. It shares your colourful, feminine instinct, which is a great sign. There is still plenty of room for Sportif: Kikiva's strap is one item in a big activewear range, in a few set pastels, leaving space to own a distinctive custom palette, a vegan and accessory-first story, and a premium pouch.

Your Reformer

DIRECT (ALSO MAKES BOOTY BANDS)

yourreformer.com.au

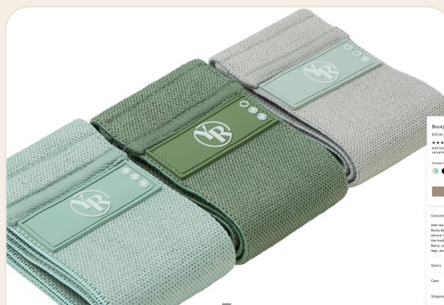

Australia's at-home reformer leader, but the site also sells a full pilates accessory range: a Booty Bands Set ($29, in several colour sets like blue/yellow, sage, mocha and cream), Curved Weighted Bands ($59, Bala-style, many colours), a Mat Pilates Pack ($99), and the reformer machines themselves (several thousand dollars).

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF A nice surprise: Your Reformer also makes booty bands, at $29, in several colours, so a few well-known brands clearly share your instinct that there is appetite for colourful bands. It suggests Sportif's difference will shine through more than colour alone: a distinctive custom palette, a focused accessory-first brand and premium feel, and the vegan and pouch story, things we would love to explore together.

P.E Nation

ASPIRATIONAL (STYLE/TIER)

pe-nation.com

Bold, fashion-led activewear (since 2016, Pip Edwards). Strong on colour and prints: College Red, Diva Pink, Washed Lime, leopard, plus burgundy and navy. Leggings $89 to $99, bras $55 to $99, bike shorts $35 to $60, tanks $89, trackpants $129. One accessory in this scan: a Homage Grip Sock at $19.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF The bold, loud end of the scale, the opposite of Sportif's soft-feminine look, so a useful 'not us' marker. Note they DO use strong colour (Diva Pink, leopard), so colour itself is not unusual; Sportif's difference is the soft, warm, affordable-luxury feel and accessory-first focus, not just being colourful. Almost all clothes; their only Sportif-lane item is a $19 grip sock.

Anine Bing

ASPIRATIONAL (FOUNDER-LED MUSE)

aninebing.com

LA founder-led fashion, the neat elevated personal-brand feel Lucy loves. The accessories tell a clear story: a big branded cap collection (Jeremy Baseball Cap in several colours $77 to $130, Nicks Bucket Hats $83 to $149) and a full bag range from a small pouch and card holder ($249) up to raffia totes and a structured bag ($659 to $1,099). Three of the small accessories are sold out.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF The look and feel to aim for, and a lesson on accessory range. They turn one logo into a whole cap-and-bag collection people buy into. For Sportif, branded caps and a small-to-large bag range (especially a pretty pouch, theirs is sold out at $249) are natural, low-risk extensions after launch. They make zero workout accessories, so that gap stays wide open.

AJE (Athletica)

ASPIRATIONAL (LUXURY FASHION)

aje.com.au

Australian luxury fashion. Its 'Athletica' line is the premium take on active accessories: grip socks $39 (including a rose colour), a 2-pack of socks $39, quilted bags $139 to $179, sandals $179, track pants $169. Has a sustainability program called 'Aje Aware'.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR SPORTIF The premium ceiling. Even this luxury brand puts colour on its grip socks ($39), which backs Sportif's colour-led idea. Their prices show how high 'affordable luxury' accessories can go. And their 'Aje Aware' page is a good model for how to talk about sustainability (a named promise with real specifics, not vague claims), which is exactly what Lucy wants to do.
